

U. S. FLYING FORTRESSES SMASH AT GERMAN SHIPBUILDING CENTER OF EMDEN IN WAKE OF OTHER TARGETS

Tons of High Explosives Dropped at Site of Important Naval Installations, Oil Plants and Shipbuilding and Repair Yards—Beauvaisville Airdrome in Western France Also Bombed.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(INS)—American Flying Fortresses smashed at the German shipbuilding center of Emden today in the wake of night assaults on industrial targets in the Rhineland by RAF bombers.

Tons of high explosives were dropped on Emden, northwest German naval base and site of important naval installations, oil plants and shipbuilding and repair yards. This was the second raid against the Nazi-held continent carried out by American Fortresses within 12 hours. Early last evening a strong formation battered two German air installations in France.

Other American bombers meanwhile roared over the channel for a morning assault on the big Beauvaisville airdrome in western France. The raiders were escorted by Allied fighters.

Specific targets of the RAF raids on the Rhineland were not immediately announced. A communique announced that none of the raiders was lost in the night's operations, which also included "intruder" sweeps over Holland by Canadian planes. One Axis bomber was shot down by the Canadians.

Baby Girl of Six Months Suffocates in Her Crib

A baby girl, six months old, suffocated to death on Saturday afternoon at her parents' home, 13 Green Lane.

The child is Ann Marie Foster, daughter of William J. and Ida Foster.

When a member of the family found that a pillow had in some way covered the baby's face as she lay in her crib, the child was rushed to Harriman Hospital, but the baby was pronounced dead upon admittance there.

Deputy Coroner of Bucks County, J. Alfred Rigby, issued a certificate stating death was due to suffocation.

The parents are the only immediate survivors.

The funeral will be conducted at the home of the infant's grandmother, Mrs. Herbert Engle, Fernwood avenue, Newportville Heights, tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. Albert W. Eastburn, vicar of Grace Episcopal Church, will officiate. Burial in Beechwood Cemetery, Hulmeville, will be in charge of Harold H. Haefner, funeral director. Friends may call this evening.

Localities Participate In "Bombing" of Phila.

2nd Lt. Marty Green and Lt. Barton DeNight, local members of the Philadelphia Squadron, Civilian Air Patrol, participated yesterday in the "bombing" of Philadelphia by paper bombs, on which appeared a plea to young men of 17 to enlist in the army air force now, and receive CAP training until they attain their 18th birthday anniversary. The age limit ranges to 27 years, but the plea was addressed particularly to the 17-year-olds.

Waves of CAP planes swept over the city, this being the first time since "Pearl Harbor" that formation flying was permitted in the eastern defense zone, or that planes were allowed to travel in formation over Philadelphia at such low altitude.

Lt. Green flew over Bristol at 2:50 o'clock, dropping some of the leaflets, prior to participating in the Philadelphia raid. Green piloted the Philadelphia raid, Green piloted the Philadelphia raid, Green piloted the Philadelphia raid, Green piloted the Philadelphia raid, Green piloted the Philadelphia raid.

Lt. Green instructs classes in military courtesy and discipline at the Dobbins Vocational School, Philadelphia.

A strong wind gave the pamphlets a long ride down.

Those interested in enlisting in such may apply at 507 Custom House, Philadelphia, any army recruiting station, or may contact 2nd Lt. Green.

RAIN LACK HINDERS SEEDING FOR FALL

But Ground Is In Good Condition for Harvesting Corn

POTATO YIELD IS LOW

Although weather conditions at present are quite favorable for the harvesting of the fall crops, including corn and potatoes, the continued lack of rain, according to Assistant County Farm Agent William H. Wilson, is preventing the farmers from preparing for their fall seeding of the grains, especially barley.

The ground, said Mr. Wilson, is in excellent condition for the cutting and husking of corn, but it is entirely too dry to plow for wheat, which should be sowed about October 1st.

Rain, it was said, is badly needed in all parts of the county. Wells in some sections have been exhausted of their water supply, and

LAMB BLEATS AND PIGS GRUNT APPROVAL AS BENSALEM TWP. RESIDENTS BID SPIRITEDLY ON WAR BONDS TO SPEED THIRD LOAN DRIVE

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Sept. 27.—Accompanied by the approved bleating of a lamb, the grunting of pigs, donated by the residents of the community, and rounds of applause by 300 enthusiastic individuals in the audience in the auditorium of Bensalem Township high school, Saturday evening, C. Burnley White auctioned off over $4,575 in war bonds. Stamp sales totaled $171.25.

The highlight of the evening was the spirited bidding on a full-blooded Guernsey bull calf, which brought a bid from Theodore Staudenmayer, Trevese, for a $500 war bond. Running close second in the bidding was the lamb, donated by the Rotary Club of Bensalem through the kindness of P. G. Mack, which fell by the hammer after amusing and lively bidding, the lamb constantly interrupting the auctioneer, and urging bidders on. The purchaser was J. Alfred Rigby.

The $100 bond door prize donated by the Keystone Wood Preserving Co., was won by William P. Elder, Jr.; second door prize, a photo portrait sitting, donated by Harold Fitch, won by Mrs. Edgar Beckes; third prize, $5 in war stamps, donated by Charles Warner, was won by Charles Werner, Andalusia, who immediately put them up for auction. James Carson, Trevese, became the possessor of the stamps for a $100 war bond.

Mrs. Thomas R. Powell fell heir to one of the "Porky Pigs"; and Mrs. Sally Thomas bought the other for a bond.

Opening the elaborate war bond revue with the singing of "America," Elmer Vansant, chairman of the Bensalem third war loan drive, handed the show over to Mr. White.

INGENUITY LACKING IN MAKING OF CLOCKS

G. S. Hotchkiss Says Old- Time Clockmakers Showed Individuality

SPEAKS AT CO. SEAT

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 27.—In speaking to Doylestown Rotary Club members last week, George S. Hotchkiss, whose hobby is collection and restoration of antique timepieces, said: "Our watches and clocks today do not begin to show the ingenuity and workmanship and individuality of those which were made many years ago."

Elaborating on this statement, Mr. Hotchkiss intimated that the early clockmakers put their whole heart and soul, their individuality into their work with the result that they turned out products of a superior quality.

Introduced by Dr. Allen H. Moore, who had charge of the program, the speaker, who has devoted much time and effort in looking for old timepieces, said: "You can never tell just where you will run across a valuable or interesting antique clock. It may be in some little shop along the crowded streets of the city, or it may be found hidden in some cranny in an attic in some isolated country home."

Many owners of such clocks, he said, really do not appreciate their value and often are quite glad to dispose of them to get them out of the way.

Clock collecting, said Mr. Hotchkiss, is a challenging hobby, and in this connection he explained he has in his possession an English book that lists 50,000 clock and watchmakers alone, and due to the records of the English clock guild, much information of the earliest timepieces is preserved.

Mr. Hotchkiss, who frequently is consulted in reference to the restoration and repair of clocks, said it is possible for the mechanically adept individual to recondition clocks himself without going to a large amount of expense.

Bucks county, it was explained, has been noted for its numerous makers of clocks, and mentioned the names of a number of makers of both tall and mantle clocks.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Condie, of Allendale, N. J., paid a visit from Friday until Sunday at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Haefner.

To the People of this Community:

IT'S NO MAXIMUM!

You say you've met your personal quota of the extra $100 War Bond in the Third War Loan. The truth is that there can be no quota for anyone as long as a single American still is on the firing line. This is a war to save our form of government and to preserve our freedom.

Everything we have in money, manpower and materials must be thrown into this fight as we invade deeper and deeper toward the heart of enemy strength.

What is happening in the Third War Loan and what is happening on the fighting fronts are both recorded in this newspaper.

They are indivisible in our campaign for victory. What you do on the home front will surely be reflected on the battlefields. Your relatives and friends will benefit or pay the price for what you do to back them up in this invasion hour.

A call at 10:10 a. m. was to the home of Miss Sara Bell, Main St., the shingle roof being afire. It is believed that sparks from the chimney ignited the shingles. Damage is estimated at $50. The booster tank was used.

Outstanding by 56,713
Gallons per Month

ASKS CO-OPERATION

Friday a representative of the Philadelphia office of OPA called at the local Rationing Board for the purpose of explaining to them the necessity for a reduction in the outstanding allotment of gasoline coupons.

On the Eastern Seaboard the reserve supply of gasoline is rapidly being reduced, and "if we do not wish to find many gas stations totally dry and face a situation where our war efforts and our domestic economy is seriously hampered we shall have to take this matter very seriously," stated a spokesman for the board.

"There is a 25% of over issue of gas ration stamps in the local district and the Bristol board has been directed to reduce the allotment."

By Staff Reporter

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 27.—"Every boy who has made the supreme sacrifice on the fighting front; every young person in this country who has given up a career to aid in the war effort; and every man and woman who has aided on the home front by giving hours of time to defense activities . . . all these sacrifices will have been in vain unless you go to the polls in November and cast your ballot to save and keep the democracy of America the way we have always known it," Mrs. Edna R. Carroll told a Republican mass meeting at the armory here Saturday afternoon.

The occasion was the annual meeting of the Republican County Committee of Bucks County. Besides the address given by Mrs. Carroll, who is vice-chairman of the Philadelphia Republican City Committee, Prof. Fred W. Hosler, superintendent of Allentown public schools, also spoke.

Allies Seize 4 More Towns in Naples Drive

Allied Headquarters in North Africa—Allied armies were revealed today to have seized four more key towns in concerted drives on the big Nazi bases of Foggia and Naples, on both sides of the battle-torn Italian mainland.

Storming across the Ofanto river, the British Eighth Army drove nine miles northwest from captured Canosa to seize the inland town of Cernigola, 22 miles southeast of Foggia.

Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's U. S. Fifth Army simultaneously captured the mountain stronghold of Calabritto, 25 miles northeast of Salerno. Also seized in the drive through the hills shielding Naples was the town of Cassano.

In the center of the blazing Italian front, British troops engulfed the village of Muro, 19 miles northwest of the captured communications hub of Potenza.

The battle is featured by tornadoic American artillery onslaughts against Nazi mountain strongholds north and northwest of Salerno, where infantry detachments also continue to mop up enemy nests one by one. There is also hand-to-hand fighting.

Gen. Clark's men are within three or four miles of the canyons and passes leading into the Naples plain.

Senators Back MacArthur for Pacific Task

Los Angeles—Five United States Senators, back home after a 37,000-mile globe-circling tour of war operations declared today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur is the only man who can win the war in the Pacific in the shortest time and with the least cost of lives.

Sen. A. C. Chandler, of Kentucky, echoing the views of the others in the group, said "there must be a commander-in-chief who will carry out this strategy and he is Gen. MacArthur."

Prof. Hosler told the gathering: "You can't even spit anymore without a federal directive or an executive order . . . and when you take away the functions of local government, as the present administration has done, then you take away the spark and spirit that has made America great. And when that spark and spirit is gone Fascism steps in."

Former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy warned of the present apathy of the voters. "All should go to the polls and vote in support of maintaining the democratic ways of this country as they have always been. It is the duty of you voters to go out and vote in November so that our personal freedoms, the right to satisfy our personal wants and needs, and the right to continue our personal enjoyments will be saved."

A. Harry Clayton, chairman of the County Republican committee, acted as chairman of the meeting. He introduced a resolutions committee consisting of the Hon. Thomas B. Stockham, Edward W. Watson, and Jacob Schumacher, members of the executive county committee. The committee presented a resolution, which was read by Mr. Stockham, honoring the memory of the late Oscar O. Bean, the Hon. Clarence J. Buckman, Gordon H. Luckenbill, and the Hon. Clifford L. Anderson, all deceased since the last annual meeting of the county committee. The resolution, which praised the loyalty, untiring work and leadership of these late members of the county committee, was passed by unanimous acclamation.

Among the guests introduced by Mr. Clayton were Congressman Charles L. Gerlach and Assemblyman William L. Yeakel. Mrs. John W. Cooper, Jr., president of the Bucks County Council of Republican Women, was introduced and declared: "Women will have to play a greater part than ever before in the coming election. They must get the voters to the polls in November."

GOP candidates for county offices were introduced, including: Marvin V. Keller, Register of Wills; Harry Wambold, Clerk of Quarter Sessions Court; John Stover, County Treasurer; Mrs. Leonora H. Leator, Clerk of Orphans' Court; Simon K. Moyer and John S. Roberts, Jr., County Commissioners; and J. Alfred Rigby, County Coroner.

Mrs. Carroll stated that "we of the Republican party have very definitely a serious and great responsibility in the coming election."

"The time has come when we must fairly and squarely lay the blame for the breakdown of our

NEXT YEAR'S GARDEN

Victory Gardens do not constitute a one-shot program. The demand for food during 1944 will be even greater than it was this year. Thus officials who are concerned with the country's food supplies are beginning to urge that now is the time to start planning next year's garden.

Thousands of persons who lacked garden experience made some mistakes this year. They are in a position to profit from their errors and, as the military experts say, consolidate their position. Until freezing weather, 1943 gardens will continue to produce, although most crops have already been harvested. Decaying vegetable matter should not be spaded under for its soil-improving value.

By the time freezing temperatures come, gardens should be cleared of everything except the root crops that can stand the cold, the ground should be prepared for its season of rest and recuperation, and when outdoor work is not possible, gardeners may sit by the fire and think about what they will do another year.

Virtually all who enjoyed fresh vegetables, grown by their own efforts this year, will be eager to do even more toward aiding the nation's food program for 1944. And the sooner the task is started the easier its completion will be.

CORRECTION

The battle for a free press in the United States has been marked by many clashes between public officials—working as a rule through the courts—and the press. In these battles many an editor has gone to jail in support of his principles.

Many a judge has assumed to decree that the word of a court is beyond question or even unfriendly discussion, and has asserted his view by consigning a critical editor to jail for contempt. The battle is unending. It is going on today.

The most recent outburst occurred in Alabama, where a judge resented criticism of one of his decisions by the Mobile Press and Register. The judge summoned the publisher, Ralph B. Chandler, found him guilty, fined him $100 and sentenced him to jail for six hours. The publisher appealed and won his liberty.

The appeal judge stated the clear and long-established rule in such cases. He held that "before a man can be adjudged guilty of contempt for criticizing a judge or court his criticism must relate to a cause or matter still pending and undecided."

The press and the higher courts agree that public criticism of a cause which is still pending is prejudicial to the best interest of justice. The risk of influencing a court or a jury is great. The cause should be tried in court and only the evidence and the arguments admitted upon proper auspices should be considered.

But to extend this principle to the completed action of the court is to endow the courts with immunity from criticism which would promote judicial tyranny in unworthy hands and set up an antagonism in the people's minds.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By Courier Staff Member

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol January 12, 1882. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

The election of trustees took place at the Methodist Church last Friday evening, and, after the election was over, by the unanimous vote of the meeting, it was decided to make immediate efforts to pay off the debt of $600, with which the church is encumbered. The funds are to be raised by subscription, and unless the whole amount is secured no subscription need be paid.

B. F. Gikelson, Esq., A. Weir Gikelson, Esq., and Charles S. Bailey, Esq., have removed their offices to the new brick building nearly opposite their former location. The offices are very conveniently arranged and appropriately furnished.

Last Sunday afternoon, Mr. J. M. Brown entered upon his 18th consecutive term as superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School, having been re-elected for the 18th time the Tuesday evening previous. In beginning his new term of service last Sunday afternoon he made a short address, retrospective in character, and pointed out the many changes that had occurred since his first accession to the superintendency.

H. G. Peters, druggist, has rented the room recently fitted up by George W. Allen and will, in a few days, remove his goods to the new location.

C. W. and J. Peirce have purchased the machinery of the Star Woolen Mill Company, and will hereafter occupy and run the Star mills.

Messrs. Nevegold, Scheide & Co. had their cash box returned night before last by the burglars who blew open their safe.

Lewis Patterson has only harvested 12 loads of ice this season. He fears a short crop.

The monthly meeting of the Medical Association was held on Tuesday last at Tullytown, at the office of Dr. H. R. Lawrence. Most of the business transacted was of an uninteresting nature to any but physicians. Dr. William E. Case, of Morrisville, exhibited an old time doctor's bill, made out in 1803 by Dr. Reading Beatty, who practiced in and around Fallsington, against Mr. Martin Mull. The items given show a great difference in the practice then and now. Bleeding was of frequent occurrence, for which a uniform fee was charged of 15 cents. The document was given to the secretary to be filed with the papers belonging to the society.

Last Monday night the office of Isaac C. Fetter, Esq., adjoining his flour mill, at Newportville, was broken open. Two safes were attempted to be forced open by drilling and with powder, but the thieves were unsuccessful. Among the papers in one of these safes were those of the Newportville Building Association; those were somewhat damaged by burning. The safe contained also about $100.

Dr. A. M. Dickie has retired from the Doylestown Intelligencer. Mr. Charles A. Cuffie takes charge of the local department, and will edit the country correspondence in the most approved style.

The regular monthly meeting of council was held on last Monday evening, at which all the members were present except Robert W. Holt, member from the third ward. The street committee reported in favor of putting in a wooden trunk at Pond street, extending from the east side of Mill street to the canal basin, and stated the estimated cost to be $50.

The constable reported that he had made a final settlement with the treasurer. His report was as follows: Amount of duplicate, $1,922.94; paid to treasurer, $1,752.09; remits, $141.09; warrants, $28.86. Total, $1,922.94. Collected on warrants, $19. . . .

CAN CHICKENS AT HOME TO AUGMENT THE MEAT SUPPLY

By Mrs. Katharine G. Moon
(Home Economics Representative)
Home-canned chicken will help to provide easy-to-prepare meat dishes for meals next winter.

For canning, select plump, somewhat fat birds. Mature birds have a better flavor when canned than do younger birds though the latter may be canned.

Dress the chicken as for table use, cutting the fowl into the usual sized pieces for serving. Wash thoroughly. Young birds weighing less than 3½ pounds can be packed raw, but older birds have a better flavor and texture if pre-cooked. The chicken may be pre-cooked in the oven at 350 degrees Fahrenheit until the red or pink color disappears, or by putting in boiling water and simmering 8 to 10 minutes, or by browning lightly in a frying pan.

Pack the pieces of chicken into the jar close together but not too tightly so that heat can easily penetrate to the center of the jar. Leave a ½ inch head space.

To each quart jar, add a teaspoon of salt and fill the jar to within a half inch from the top with water in which the chicken was cooked or with freshly boiled water. With a clean cloth wipe off the top of the jar, for a bit of fat here may prevent the formation of a good seal. Attach the cover and seal according to the type used.

In the pressure cooker at 15 pounds pressure, process pint jars of chicken with bone for 65 minutes and quart jars for 75 minutes. If you are using the boiling water bath, process pint jars 2 hours and quart jars 2½ hours. Chicken that is pre-cooked in the boiling water bath must be heated to the boiling point for ten minutes before canning.

Further information on canning chicken is given in Leaflet 59. You may get a copy of this from the Agricultural Extension Office in Doylestown.

WELL-EARNED FURLOUGH

CAPTOWN (INS)—Eleven hundred South African soldiers, many of them wearing the Crusader's Cross, emblem of General Montgomery's Eighth Army, have arrived here on leave. Among them were many engineers who had been away from home for three years. Included, too, were 178 repatriated prisoners of war from Italy.

SPEED "HALE-TRACS"

CLEVELAND (INS)—A vastly improved automatic method of handling large 24-inch drive sprockets going into Army "half-tracks" has enabled the International Harvester Company to speed up by 133 per cent the important operation of surface hardening the teeth of these vital parts.

Local Board Ordered To Cut "Gas" Rations

outstanding by 56,674 gallons per month. The gas panel is faced with the Herculean task of reviewing all the B and C applications to see where a reduction can be made. This is not only a request, this is made mandatory by the seriousness of the situation, and the driving public is asked to assist and cooperate in every way this patriotic task.

This work is to start this week and will continue until all applications are given careful consideration for a possible reduction.

Every driver should ask himself "Is this ride essential?"

"Our troops in the field and training camps must have an unlimited supply of gas, and it is little enough for us at home to deny ourselves the use of a few gallons of gasoline if we can thereby assure assistance to a speedy and successful termination of the war.

"The surest way we can co-operate with our soldiers in the field is to help our Ration Board to carry forward the necessary plans imposed upon it by the existing emergency," concluded the spokesman.

ance Company for over 30 years. Mr. Hibbs is a member of Langhorne borough council and has been chairman of the street committee of that body since 1936. He has never missed a meeting of the council since his appointment in 1934.

John J. McGrath, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGrath, Langhorne Manor, received his commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps at graduation exercises at San Marcos, Texas.

McGrath is among the hundreds of youthful Americans changed from rookies to highly-skilled aerial navigators in 18 weeks at the hush sister navigation schools at Hondo and San Marcos.

A dispatch from Fort Des Moines, Iowa, says Wilhelmina C. Smythe, of Morrisville, has been commissioned a third officer in the Women's Army Corps.

She was selected for officer training on the basis of her ability and record of work as an Auxiliary in the WAC. Third Officer is the WAC equivalent of second lieutenant.

She will be assigned to an executive position in the WAC Corps immediately taking over a non-combatant army job releasing a soldier for combat duty or participating in the expanded WAC training program which eventually will replace a full field army with trained woman-power in behind-the-lines army jobs.

A meeting of the Forest Fire Wardens of Bucks County, under the direction of E. F. Bronse, District Forester, will be held tonight at Camp Ockanickon, the Bucks County Boy Scout camp at Point Pleasant.

Among the many points of interest in forest fire control that will be discussed will be the forest fire service of the Civilian Defense Council.

Raymond W. Soxworth, Scout Executive of the Council, is chief of the Forest Fire Fighter Service of the O. C. D. of the county and will be in attendance at the meeting.

Republicans Urge Voters To Keep America As We Know It

domestic and homefront system of doing things at the feet of Mr. Roosevelt.

"We are now getting government by directive and not by the voter's choice. States' rights have been forgotten. We in Philadelphia, which is the shrine of the Nation, and you, in Bucks County, who have much of that same tradition, must get out in November and vote the return of the America our forefathers built and defended for us."

Professor Hosler reminded his audience that "If old values are to be preserved then the people must think and act now. . . . I hope the flag of our great country will always symbolize the right to free speech without an order from the FBI or some other government agency."

Hosler praised the school system in this country and pointed out that whenever a great program of public education is given to the people the chances for the foreign "isms" to creep in remain very slim.

"This country was founded on free enterprise . . . not with the idea of the government 'snooperizing' and throttling business as is the case with the present regime. . . . And the time has come when the leaders of labor must be made to realize that after labor has won its rights that there are also responsibilities which labor must meet. Labor troubles would disappear if union officers were elected by secret ballot, if votes on whether or not to strike were taken by secret ballot, and if dues and fees were required to give an annual financial accounting."

"Just to make sure that labor troubles would disappear the whole problem would become quite simple if the gangster leaders who have usurped control of the unions were put in jail."

"Our present tax system also needs some great changes if we are to continue to enjoy our democracy. The formula of taxation should be equally applied to everyone; ability to pay must be considered, and we must stop taxing private enterprise out of existence. . . . One of the worst of the present evils is the complete centralization of powers under the Federal government. That was the method used by Mussolini and Hitler to gain control of their respective countries."

"Over 4,000 executive orders have been issued from the White House in the last ten years. And the regulations and interpretations of these orders fill 20 volumes—almost equal to the laws passed by our Congress. The running of government by executive order means a progressive degeneration of our American democracy. This is a serious challenge. You can meet it by voting the return of those persons who believe in our tried and proven form of government."

"The four freedoms promised us are all excellent . . . but give us a fifth . . . give us the freedom to produce without government order and directive and our democracy will continue to live."

"And when the war is over we will fall again if we try to saddle the burdens of the whole world on the citizens of the United States. We cannot feed the whole world—that is an insane idea."

"If America is going to compete and participate in the world of tomorrow we must begin to train the State Department today."

"If existence of our democracy is to continue we must also unburden ourselves of the Federal employees in every state. In this great Commonwealth there are 44,000 state employees, but there are 215,000 Federal employees. Our OPA needs the services of 2,700 lawyers, with 500 of them in Washington. In Great Britain their system is run with a staff of 10 men."

"If we are to continue and save our democracy we must cherish and revere the principles of the founders of this country," Hosler said in conclusion.

Group singing of the Star Spangled Banner under the direction of Joseph Parker, Southampton, was the opening feature of the meeting. Mrs. M. Epstein, Bristol, accompanied on the piano.

Announcement was made by Chairman Clayton that the County

Registration Board will sit in the Administration Building here next Wednesday and Friday evenings and all day Saturday to 4 p. m. for the purpose of registering voters who have not already done so.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

been knocked out of the war. Both the others are on the defensive. Their complete defeat is inevitable. We have assured air supremacy in every theater. Our margin of mastery is steadily growing. We are destroying planes faster than they can make them; we are making them faster than anyone dreamed possible. Under the circumstances, to contend that the danger of enemy bombing remains the same is foolish. While, in the first part of his statement, Mr. Martin appears to make this contention, in the last part he appears to abandon it by admitting that changed conditions make certain "adaptations and modifications" desirable. One of these "adaptations" he suggests is the use in the "more remote inland communities" of the OGD to supplement the "depleted normal services of the community such as police, fire and medical."

IN NO part of his statement does Mr. Martin suggest that OGD might meet these changed conditions by shrinking its organization and reducing its pay roll. For, despite its large volunteer force, it has a large pay roll and spends a lot of money. But, shrinking an organization in that way is the last idea to occur to the head of a Government agency. From suggestions of that kind they recoil as from a rattlesnake. Actually, Mr. Martin's statement conforms perfectly to the New Deal party line in such matters. It justifies the charge that always when the need for an agency has ended, some way is found to "keep going." Even when the agency is abolished by Congressional action, the jobholders merely transfer to some other board or bureau.

OF COURSE, the time has come to reduce the OGD to a size necessary only to protect the limited coastal localities from the exceedingly unlikely local raid that conceivably may occur. It would be a welcome relief to the people generally to be rid of useless blackouts and air-raid alarms. It would be pleasant, too, for the heavily burdened taxpayer to feel that an unnecessary drain on the public funds had been stopped, that the steady stream of millions required by the full-sized OGD had been reduced to a trickle. Certainly, it was essential when we entered the war to guard against the air-raid danger. As it turned out, the danger never materialized, but it might have. Now the danger is over, the foolishness of continuing to protect the whole country as though it continued unabated is too apparent to be ignored.

AND IT is equally foolish to invent reasons for keeping this huge organization going at full speed—such as supplementing police, fire and medical services in rural communities or preventing strikes, sabotage and slowdowns. The OGD was not created to enter such fields. It is not equipped to enter them and to attempt to enter them would result merely in increasing the already very great Washington confusion. Nor need one fear that OGD curtailment would mean dangerous relaxing of our war effort, such as the President has warned against. There would be no more danger of that sort of relaxing than there would be in the withdrawal of a large military force from a conquered territory. It would be fine if the OGD should reduce itself voluntarily to fit the realities instead of trying to find ways to avoid them. If it is unable or unwilling to do this itself, then Congress could do it in the same way it did with the OWI.

LAST SUMMER when it heavily slashed the OWI appropriation for its domestic activities, there was a hoyle of anguish from those in charge. It was threatened that Mr. Elmer Davis, the solemn head of the OWI, would resign. It was said that "our work will be crippled" and that the national interests would suffer. Well, the work has not been crippled, the national interests have not suffered and, of course, Mr. Davis has not resigned. Voluntary reduction of the OGD machine also might release some single men, or some men married but not fathers, for the armed services, which need men badly. To some extent, this reduction might disarm the ferocious Congressmen who, insisting that there are thousands of Government workers eligible for draft, refer to them as the "lost army."

"Do not take it for granted," said Mr. Hotchkiss, "that the name on the dial of a clock actually means that he was the person who made it. The name is often that of the owner of the clock or of the man who assembled it after purchasing the movement."

Many of the early clock cases, the Rotarians were told, were made by the village carpenter or undertaker who at that time happened to be the only cabinet-maker in the community.

Included among the prominent clockmakers in Bucks county, he said, were the Sollidays, Parke, Elliott, Morris, Hagey, Hoagey, Godshalk, Wismer, Yeakle and Lomi Speller, the latter the inventor of the electric clock, which was given its first test at Main and State streets, Doylestown.

An interesting feature of the talk was the tracing of the history of timekeeping from the time of the dampened grass rope, the knotted rope, the candles, the water clocks, hour glasses, sun dials, shepherd's pillar, on through the period of development of wheel, weight and pendulum clocks.

Mr. Hotchkiss also described the fine workmanship and ingenuity of the horologists several hundred years ago, when they had puppet-moon phases, signs of the Zodiac, musical attachments and many other inventions. Puppet clocks of towers, he said, were made as long as 700 years ago, and a few can still be found in Europe. Time-measuring devices go back as far as the 8th century, B. C.

In the absence of Leroy W. Ingraham, the president, the meeting was in charge of Frank W. Elp.
